

Eco Gift Wrapping

*Gift wrapping is an art.
It can turn everyday objects into amazing presents.
During Christmas show how much you care
by adding that personal touch to your presents.*

Traditional wrapping paper is often laminated or made up of glitter or plastics, which makes it difficult or impossible to recycle. So why not think outside the box when it comes to wrapping?

Give new life to items around your home - newspapers, maps or pieces of fabric which will give a cool vintage look to any package.

If you want to spruce up your gifts, decorate them with natural materials like pine cones, berries and evergreen sprigs.

Instead of plastic ribbon, use hemp or string—or cut fabric into strips.

Try brown paper – it's versatile, traditional, rustic and can be personalised. There are many ways to make your gifts pop with some painted stencils. Brown paper provides you with endless creative possibilities allowing you to personalise your gift wrapping, all while helping the environment.

Remember - Reduce, Reuse, Recycle
